Community Reads

Our fantastic WSD PTO is bringing Community Reads back! Our first Community Reads will be Friday, February 17th, 3:00 - 5:00 pm.

Community Reads is an event where someone reads to the students, and there are activities for the students to do after the read-aloud. For the Community Reads in February Marlon Hyde will be reading to the students.

Marlon Hyde is the Sunday Weekend Edition Host and Vermont Public's first news fellow. He reports on Arts, Culture, and Community stories. He joined Vermont Public in the spring of 2021 after graduating from Saint Michael's College with a degree in media studies, journalism, and digital arts with a minor in Philosophy. He has been honored with a National Murrow Award for reporting on the 9/11 Remembrance Project alongside Jane Lindholm and Melody Bodette. Originally from Brooklyn, New York, he resides in Burlington. He says he comes from a family of storytellers. His hobbies include cooking, playing basketball, and collecting vintage vinyl records.

All JFK students are welcome to attend this event. Students must have a high school sibling or an adult with them to attend.

The schedule will be:

We will run summer school in two sessions. All students will either be attending session A (the weeks of July 10th and 17th) or session B (the weeks of July 24th and 31st).

We will be sending home more information, including how to sign up, as we move closer to summer. Parent Teacher Conferences in March will be a great time to talk to your student(s) teacher(s) about summer school.
